Outdoor Opportunities

By COL (Ret.) Grey D. Berrier II

Visiting Ohiopyle State Park for Something Other Than White Water Paddling

The well-known Scottish Poet, Robert Burns, gave us the famous quote, "The best-schemes of mice and men gang aft agley" in his 1785 poem: "To a Mouse." The most common translation we often hear of this phrase is, "The best laid plans of mice and men often go awry," and unfortunately it happens more often than most of us would prefer. For the past several years, it seems like making any kind of Winter-weather related outdoor plans is often a bust. If you want to go ice-fishing, ice-skating, snowmobiling, sled-riding, or simply build a snowman or have a snowball battle, the lack of sustained cold temperatures and frozen precipitation have made those activities nearly impossible. Back in January, my son Grey III and I made plans to get together on Friday, February 9, 2024, which was one of his scheduled days off. Our initial thought, given it would be mid-Winter in Pennsylvania, was we would get in some cross-country skiing together, even if that meant driving some to find snow. However, when we entered a stretch of several days of unusually warm near 60-degree temperatures, we knew we had to make alternate plans outdoors.

If you're a regular reader, you're probably aware I love to visit our PA State Parks, those tremendously varied public lands distributed throughout the Commonwealth, which are set aside for outdoor recreation and encourage exploration. Well, one of those in Western PA, which happens to be on the Youghiogheny River (one of the premier whitewater paddling destinations in the Eastern United States) is Ohiopyle State Park. We decided if Mother Nature was going to throw us the curveball of a mild day in early February, then we would embrace the opportunity and visit Ohiopyle to focus on something other than paddling the river. Now, regardless of why you visit Ohiopyle State Park, the Youghiogheny River is the center piece, since you can see it, hear it, and are constantly aware it is presence, just about everywhere in the park.

Our goal on this particular day was hiking, so we parked in the backpacking trailhead parking lot along PA-381 on the north side of the river in order to explore the 100-acre Ferncliff Natural Area. Less than 4-miles north of Ohiopyle along PA-381 is Fallingwater, the Frank Lloyd Wright architectural icon built for the Kaufman Family in 1937 along Bear Run. Mr. Kaufman, a prominent Pittsburgh businessman, purchased 11,000 acres along the Youghiogheny River, which included the Ferncliff Peninsula, and donated the land to the Western Pennsylvania Conservancy (WPC). The WPC subsequently sold that land and other adjacent properties they acquired to the Commonwealth in the 1960's. In 1971, Ohiopyle State Park opened to the public and today encompasses 20,633 acres stretching miles along both river banks.

The Ferncliff Natural Area is a special place, both geographically and biodiversity-wise. Surrounded by the river and consisting of steep terrain, it was spared by the lumbermen in the late 1800's/early 1900's, when over 90% of PA was completely logged off and devoid of trees. Today, Ferncliff Natural Area has some prominent old growth forest in addition to a wide variety of native trees, shrubs, wildflowers, and plants typically found in more southern portions of the Appalachians. We hiked the nearly two-mile Ferncliff Trail loop in a clockwise direction, so we started out directly along the river on the west side of Ohiopyle Falls. The trail was well-marked with prominent yellow paint swaths, both on the many rocks we scrambled over and on numerous trees. There were so many opportunities for tremendous photos of the river and the falls. The accumulated debris indicated the water level had been much higher in late January, and unfortunately, a significant amount of litter was present, even on these scenic waters.

After completing the Ferncliff Trail, we walked across the Ohiopyle Low Bridge into town. There on the eastern bank of the river is a fully ADA accessible parking area, observation decks, and the tremendous park visitors center, so everyone can enjoy viewing and experiencing 20-foot Ohiopyle Falls up-close and personal. We continued about a 3.5-mile loop that took us to beautiful 30-foot bridal-veil Cucumber Falls and eventually onto the Great Allegheny Passage (the well-known bike path transecting the park) that brought us back across the Ohiopyle High Bridge to our waiting vehicle. We each took dozens of amazing photographs throughout our excursion and ended our day with a late lunch at the Falls Market in town.

Ohiopyle State Park is roughly a two-hour drive from New Castle. While most visitors come Spring, Summer, and Fall to paddle the river, there is something there for individuals of all ages and physical abilities to see and do year-round. I highly encourage you to visit Ohiopyle Falls and the visitors center for yourself. Then decide what your park experience will be! God Bless, Be Safe, and Great Outdoors! ©WBB 2024

Now Here's A Tip

by JoAnn Derson

• "We save the bread ends and any too-hard or molding bread in our freezer until we can get down to the lake and feed the birds and fish. The ducks especially love it." – E.F. in WI

• "Keep a container or baggie of wet wipes with your shoes so it's easy to give them a quick wipe-down either before you put them on or before you put them away. They will always stay nice and clean." – E.W. and V.O. ©2024 King Features Synd., Inc.

Who shall not fear You, O Lord, and glorify Your name? For You alone are holy. . . . Your judgments have been manifested. —Revelation 15:4. Read: Revelation 15
Those who know God best do not judge Him for His judgments; rather, they worship and affirm His actions. What should surprise us is not the massive scale of God's judgments, but that He's waiting so long! Desiring that none should perish but that all should come to repentance (2 Peter 3:9), God is now mercifully restraining His judgment and giving maximum space to His marvelous mercy and grace.
