Kovels

Antiques and Collecting
by Terry and Kim Kovel

Q: In 1967, as a 14-year-old, I lived in Sebastopol, California, with Charles Schulz as a neighbor. I was friends with his sons. One day, as I was visiting his place, I got several discarded sketches on 4-by 6-inch notepad paper. When Mr. Schulz was formulating ideas for his strip, he would sketch out his ideas on notepads before he finalized them in his strip. Then he would crumple them up and toss them away. Many years ago, I

Now Here's A Tip
by JoAnn Derson

- Soak your metal tools in Coca-Cola when they get gummed up. It does a great job of loosening the gunk, and after a few hours in a Coke bath, you can almost just brush stuff right off. Makes you wonder about drinking it, but whatever works!
- Perhaps there are others who would enjoy any coupons you don't use. Ask your neighbors and friends. ©2024 King Features Synd., Inc.

framed them with copies of the actual comic strips that they inspired, which were published a month or so later. I have always wondered what value these sketches could have.

A: Charles Schulz created the comic strip "Peanuts" in 1950. It originally ran from 1950 to 2000 and has been in reruns since then. Original art for popular comic strips sells for high prices. The record price for original art for "Peanuts" was $192,000 for a four-panel, black-and-white daily strip from 1950. It sold at Heritage Auctions in 2020. Individual sketches have sold for a few hundred dollars to over a thousand dollars. Subject, size and condition help determine the value. The artists' signature also adds value. Contact an auction house that sells comic art to find out the value of the sketches. ©2024 King Features Synd., Inc.

Outdoor Opportunities

By COL (Ret.) Grey D. Berrier II

Completely New Observations and Experiences Seem to Be in Store for 2024!

Wow! It's hard to believe it was 11-years ago today, back on March 1, 2013, on my very first day as a military retiree after 31.5-years in uniform, my inaugural "Outdoor Opportunities" column appeared right here in the pages of the Weekly Bargain Bulletin. Over that time frame, I've had a lot of interesting, amazing, and amusing experiences occur, which I've had the privilege of sharing with readers. The ever-present possibility of seeing, hearing, or experiencing something completely new outdoors always drives me to get out-of-bed, out-of-the house, and into the woods or on the water as much as possible. If first time experiences in January and February 2024 are any indication of how 2024 is going to go, then I'm really excited about what may lie in store! Allow me to share what unusual has already happened so far.

Predator Prey relationships are important links in nature's food webs, but are sometimes difficult to get our minds wrapped around. We tend to anthropomorphize the predator as a villain and the prey as the victim. Occasionally, we get to see that interaction play out. Back on Jan. 4, 2024, I was up in Crawford County flintlock hunting with fellow outdoor writer, Jerry Bush. He was cautiously driving as we made our way up a pot-hole infested dirt road through intermittent fields and woodlots. Suddenly, going up a hill a small doe ran across the road about 200-yards ahead of us. She was followed by two smaller than average (for the time of year) fawns, which she must have had late in the Summer. Right on the heels of the second fleeing fawn was a pursuing coyote. Now, I've seen coyotes chasing deer before, but what came next was completely new. About the time the sprinting coyote got to the left side of road, an extremely large doe (she was almost twice the size of the first doe and 3X larger than the fawns) came barreling out from the right in hot pursuit of the coyote. Frequently, whitetail does will travel in multi-generational family groups. I truly believe grandma doe was desperately trying her best to save her grandchildren from the coyote. Mature does will aggressively repel coyotes with flailing sharp hooves. The chase was out-of-sight when we got to where they crossed, but I'll always wonder about the outcome.

On Sat., Jan. 27, I was hunting down in Allegheny County on the last day of the extended late archery season in WMU 2B. I had gone in before daylight and got situated watching a well-used deer trail. About first shooting light, which is 30-minutes before sunrise, I started to hear a wild turkey gobbler gobbling from a wooded ridge about 300-yards south of my concealed hiding spot. Shortly thereafter, a second gobbler got fired up and responded with challenging gobbles at a little closer distance to the southeast. Now, I've heard gobblers gobbling in all months of the year, but when I heard a hen aggressively yelping back to "the boys", it was definitely a first in January for me. Hopefully, our warmer than usual Winter doesn't cause some turkeys to breed too early and then reoccurring cold Spring weather/rains kills poults.

I do know the 60-degree weather on Feb. 9 & 10 messed up one 30-inch garter snake. I was coyote hunting the morning of Sat., Feb 10 when I came across a garter snake about 2/3's of the way out of his hole in a state of "suspended animation". Being cold-blooded, I'm guessing the exceptionally warm temperature on Feb. 9 caused him to wake up and start to crawl outside, before the cold night temperature (back down around 36-degrees) caused his cold-blooded body to just shut down. When I first gently touched his side with my gloved finger, I detected a slight movement from some of his scales. Two or three light strokes got him retreating backward in extremely slow motion. Eventually, after 2-minutes, he was completely back in his hole. I reminded him to remain underground until Spring actually arrived.

Deer don't mind getting their feet wet. It's one reason you often hear about big bucks being taken out of swamps. I had a two-person ladder stand set up in a swamp by the Shenango River this past deer season. I tried to retrieve it on Mon., Jan. 27, but the recent rains had the Shenango above its banks and my ladder stand in 4-feet of water. So, my son went with me on the afternoon of Feb. 10 to remove the stand after the water receded. It was all good until we got within 5-yards of the tree my stand leaned against. The beavers had built a small dam on an outlet stream draining the swamp. Fortunately, it was still 52-degrees when I rolled my BDU pants up above my knees to wade into calf-deep water to retrieve the stand. The only good thing was my son had left his cell phone at the house and wasn't able to capture my entire ungraceful retrieval on video for posterity. There you have it. New things are constantly occurring outdoors. So, get out there in 2024 and experience them too! God Bless, Be Safe, and Great Outdoors! ©WBB 2024

The Garden Bug

Daffodils

To grow standard-size daffodils in a pot, select a 2-gallon size pot. For the soil mix, use 1 part perlite to 3 parts sterilized soil. In the bottom of the pot, over a little soil, place a pinch of 0-10-10 fertilizer (do not let the bulb come in contact with the fertilizer), then fill pot to within an inch of the rim. Try to place 3 or 4 bulbs about 1/3 of the way from the top of the pot. Water every day for the first week; after this, water when the soil appears dry. After blooming, add a pinch of 5-10-10 fertilizer to the pot. This helps build the bulb for next year's bloom. - Brenda Weaver

Our Daily Bread

The Missionary Option

You shall be witnesses to Me in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and to the end of the earth. —Acts 1:8. Read: Acts 1:1-8

There are two kinds of people when it comes to missions—those who need to share Christ and those who need to hear about Him.

H. A. Ironside used to tell a story about a meeting in which a missionary offering was taken. When the collection plate was handed to a wealthy man, he brushed it aside and said, "I do not believe in missions." "Then take something out," said the usher. "This is for the heathen."

As a boy I looked up to missionaries as godly people who sailed to some far-off, uncivilized land and didn't return for several years. Being a missionary was the ultimate calling—nothing could be more noble or admirable. I still believe that God calls men and women to missionary service in other lands, and I still have great respect for them, but my idea of missionaries has changed.

Every Christian is part of Christ's mission in the world. What Jesus told His disciples in Acts 1 applies also to us. We are His witnesses and therefore must speak and live so that others will glorify Him when they hear our message and see our faith in action.

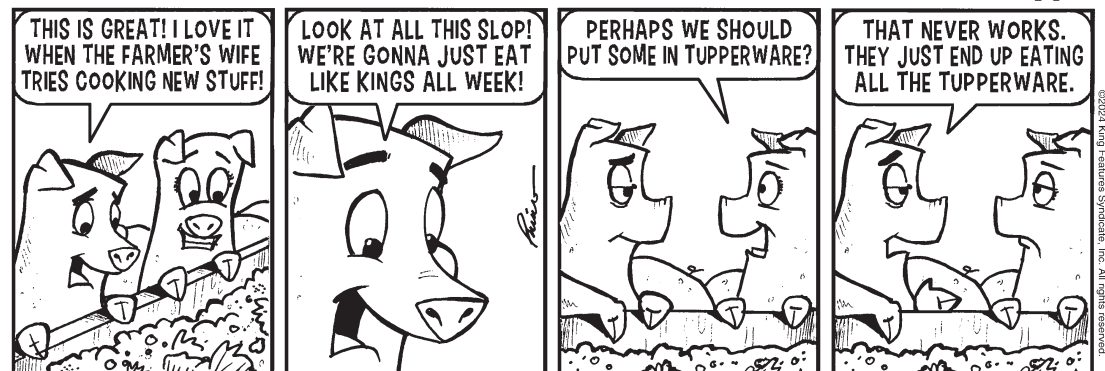

Being a missionary is not an option—it's what we are called to be. By Dennis J. De Haan

I am a missionary, Lord,
Wherever I may be;
At home or in a distant land,
I'll tell the world of Thee. —Brandt

One thing you cannot do about missions—
escape your responsibility.

DEAR PAW'S CORNER:
I have a neighbor who puts both of her cats on leashes and walks them through the neighborhood each day.

Paws Corner
by Sam Mazzotta

Shouldn't they be outside on their own, prowling and doing cat stuff? Sign me – Concerned Cat Mom in Providence, Rhode Island

DEAR CONCERNED: As long as the cats aren't distressed by the leash, I don't see a problem.

Some cats are completely uninterested in exploring the world outside, and some are downright fearful of it. And that's totally fine. Others, however, want to be outside every chance they get.

Letting cats wander outside puts them at risk of being struck by a car, attacked by wildlife or feral cats, or contracting an illness. Cats can be a menace to other creatures, so much so that there's evidence they are impacting the bird population. Songbirds are already under threat from climate change and bird flu (which spreads just as easily among wild birds as it does on chicken farms), so adding another predator to the list is not a good thing.

Putting a cat on a leash (and in a harness, rather than a collar) is a great way to help them explore while keeping them safe. It's also helpful when taking your cat on long car trips – they can stretch their legs safely at rest stops.

For those who'd like to try walking their cat, buy a harness that fits your cat. Cats won't like the harness at first; put it on and just let them get used to it while you hold the leash loosely. Make it a positive experience with lots of treats. Once they start exploring comfortably with the harness on, walk around with them, guiding them. Don't tug on the leash or drag them.

Pick them up if they won't move, but always keep it positive. ©2024 King Features Synd., Inc.

Apple & Brown Sugar Corned Beef

- 4 cups apple juice
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- 2 (3 lb.) corned beef briskets with spice packets
- 20 small red potatoes, scrubbed
- 4 carrots, cut into chunks
- 2 onions, cut into 8 wedges
- 1 head cabbage, cored and cut into large chunks

Pour the apple juice into a large slow cooker, and mix in the brown sugar and mustard, stirring until the brown sugar has dissolved. Mix in the contents of the spice packets, and lay the briskets into the apple juice mixture. Top with red potatoes, carrots, onions, and cabbage chunks. Push all ingredients into the liquid. Cover and cook on High until corned beef is very tender, 4 to 5 hours; or cook on Low for 8 to 10 hours. Slice meat thinly across the grain, and serve with vegetables.

Get a Taste of These Mouthwatering Bran Muffins

I've been baking and writing about bran muffins for years. I recently put my favorite recipes to the test, and if my family tasters are honest, I've hit on an updated version so good that I have to hide muffins in the recesses of my cupboard pantry if I'm going to get my share.

Still full of good and healthy stuff, this version calls for the raisins to soak a bit so they puff up before getting stirred into the batter. I also added more chopped walnuts. When I did a taste test with two recipes, one with and one without a smooched-up ripe banana, the one with banana won. It adds a nice taste and texture.

Taste-testing aside, the fun part of muffin-making with kids is that there's a job for all ages and stages. One child can measure and stir together dry ingredients in one bowl, while another can crack the egg or smooch the banana in a different bowl. Within minutes, the batter comes together, ready to scoop into little paper cups and bake.

Wash and dry the prepping dishes as a team, and before you know it, you're poking a toothpick in the middle of a muffin to test its doneness and enjoying a healthy homemade snack in a kitchen where the baking aroma of home wafts through the air.

MOUTHWATERING BRAN MUFFINS

- Makes 12 large muffins
- 2 cups whole wheat flour
  - 1 1/2 cups wheat bran
  - 1/2 cup wheat germ
  - 2 tablespoons brown sugar
  - 1 1/4 teaspoons baking soda
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - 2 cups plus 2 tablespoons milk
  - 1 egg, lightly beaten
  - 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
  - 1 ripe banana, mashed
  - 1/2 cup raw blue agave sweetener or 1/3 cup honey
  - 3/4 cup raisins, soaked in water for 5 minutes and drained
  - 3/4 cup chopped walnuts

INSTRUCTIONS:

Preheat oven to 350 F. Line a muffin pan with paper liners. Stir together the flour, bran, wheat germ, brown sugar, baking soda and salt in a medium bowl.

In a large bowl, whisk together the milk, egg, vegetable oil and agave sweetener or honey, until combined.

Add the dry ingredients, stirring just until combined; then fold in the banana, raisins and nuts with a few swift strokes. Do not overstir.

Scoop the batter into the muffin cups. An ice-cream scoop works well. Bake until lightly browned and a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean, about 20-25 minutes. Cool for 5 minutes and serve.

Now Here's A Tip by JoAnn Derson

- "You can use a thermos to keep soup warm as a lunch option. Just get a clean funnel for use in the kitchen. You can use it to add soup to the thermos. It makes a good alternative to mix up your lunch options. Before you fill the thermos with your hot food, fill it with boiling water and let it sit for a good five minutes. Then empty out the water just before filling. The food will stay hot longer." – E.D. in Wisconsin ©2024 King Features Synd., Inc.
