Q: My kids all have character lunch boxes. When I was in elementary school, everyone had lunch boxes with their favorite cartoon character, movie or band. When did they start making these and are old ones valuable?

A: The first character lunch box was made in 1950 when one was marketed with the cowboy movie star Hopalong Cassidy. The fictional hero walked with a limp in books, movies and television. Aladdin Industries was the first company to produce a lunch box and thermos with a licensed character. More than 60,000 Hopalong Cassidy lunch boxes were sold in the first year, starting the character lunch box craze that continues to this day. Vintage metal lunch boxes recently have been selling for $200 to $775. ©2024 King Features Synd., Inc.
TIP #1: Clean cast iron with coarse salt and a soft sponge. The salt is abrasive enough to remove bits of food and absorb oil without harming the pan's seasoning. Rinse and wipe dry.
TIP #2: Don't wax a piece of furniture that has not been cleaned in the past year.

Outdoor Opportunities

By COL (Ret.) Grey D. Berrier II

Earning the Rather Unique Title as
 "The Porcupine Whisperer"

Over my lifetime, I've received good advice, bad advice, and even some very unusual advice. Probably some of the oddest advice, that was actually sound, came from my Uncle Jack prior to a week-long canoe trip up in Quebec Province with my Explorer Post as a high school junior. Uncle Jack told me to take my wooden canoe paddle inside the tent at night when I slept, since porcupines crave salt and will gnaw on canoe paddle handles where you've sweated, if you leave them outside. I shared this wisdom with my fellow Explorers and they thought it was something I had made up. No one heeded my advice until the third night out in the backcountry, when we awoke to find two wooden paddles severely gnawed on.

After that encounter, I really wanted to see a porcupine up close in the wild. However, spending most of my time outdoors in Southeastern and Southcentral PA made that unlikely. It wasn't until my senior year at Penn State when I was driving a dirt road with two friends in Rothrock State Forest outside State College that I came across my first PA porcupine. I stopped my truck, got out, and walked up within four feet of the slow-moving creature for a good look. Porcupines have poor vision and are easily overtaken, but their thick array of barbed quills cause most predators to give them a wide berth. It's a myth they can shoot their quills at attackers, but they will bristle their quills and thrash their tails as defensive measures.

Ever since my first PA porcupine observation in September 1984, I have been fascinated by porcupines and always make it a point to consciously look for them when I'm afield. In fact, the past 12-months were excellent for porcupine close encounters. I was recently sharing my stories with two Ohio residents, both of whom have never seen a wild porcupine. After telling the tales of the 7 porcupines I crossed paths with, the one gentleman light-heartedly pronounced that I am "The Porcupine Whisperer" in his eyes, since I seem to have the ability to attract them. Allow me to share my stories and you be the judge.

Back on March 19, 2023, I was up on PA State Game Lands 39 in Venango County scouting for turkeys. I had our German Shepherd along as I walked remote forest roads looking for droppings, tracks, feathers, scratchings, and dusting sites, along with listening for "turkey talk". We were about a mile into our 5-mile jaunt when we came across a very dark, slow-moving porcupine up ahead. Fortunately, Saint listened to me and immediately healed when called. He left the porcupine alone as we got closer, but I did have my Leatherman in my pack, just in case I would ever need its pliers to remove quills from him. Five minutes later, I saw the "blondest" porcupine I've ever seen, sleeping in a sassafras tree only eight feet off the ground. Its very light color and the many gnawed branches clearly gave it away. I was able to get very close and the porcupine did allow some exceptional photographs, before I left it to its afternoon slumber.

My next porcupine photo session was a "two-fer" on October 19, up in Warren County during the early muzzleloader antlerless deer season. I came across a mother porcupine and her young porcupette sleeping together in a hemlock tree. It made for a great photo and I was somewhat surprised I didn't see any more porcupines that day, given all the gnawed trees I saw with bark removed at ground level or up above. Next, came the "I almost stepped on a porcupine moment" on December 8, when I was walking in the predawn darkness to my deer stand in Venango County with my red-lens headlamp. Suddenly, it was just there as I took a step. I avoided colliding and decided against a photo, since a flash might scare the deer.

Flintlock season brought two more porcupine sightings. On January 4, I got a photo of my very first Mercer County porcupine on PA SGL 130, just east of Jackson Center, as it slept peacefully in a tree. However, the last day of flintlock, Jan. 15, brought the best encounter of my life. Right after I missed a sizeable doe and as I was attempting to reload my flintlock, I noticed her two yearlings were watching me from 45-yards away and then constantly looking down. I soon realized they were watching the largest porcupine I've ever seen, heading directly my way. When it got within 12-yards, I put down my rifle and began recording with my iPhone. In the 33-second video, the massive porcupine walks directly towards me until I had to stop recording and poke it with my flintlock barrel after it got within 18-inches of where I was concealed. It whirled around thrashing its tail and stood up, revealing it reached halfway up my thigh, and gnashed its teeth for almost a minute. Eventually, it plodded off in the direction it had come from. Leaving me with a memory, a video, and photos I'll never forget and happily share. Maybe a porcupine encounter, possibly your first, is in store in 2024! God Bless, Be Safe, and Great Outdoors!

Our Daily Bread

On a First-Name Basis

Read: John 10:1-16

He calls His own sheep by name and leads them out. John 10:3

Whenever I visit the Korean Presbyterian Church in Baltimore, I notice that the people seldom refer to one another by their first name. They speak formally of each other and to each other—Mr. Kim, Mr. Pyen, Mrs. Hugh. One day I asked Mr. Pyen about this custom. He replied, "Only when we know people intimately do we use their first name."

Perhaps that's why I responded negatively when the head of a religious organization wrote me asking for my financial support. He began, "Dear Dennis," and signed his letter, "Bob." It was an impersonal form letter dressed in the garb of familiarity.

Jesus calls us by name because He knows us so well. That's the picture we get in John 10. When an oriental shepherd was with the same flock for many years, he developed a close relationship with each animal. He would give them descriptive names like "Brown-leg" or "Black-ear." And when he called them, they responded to his voice.

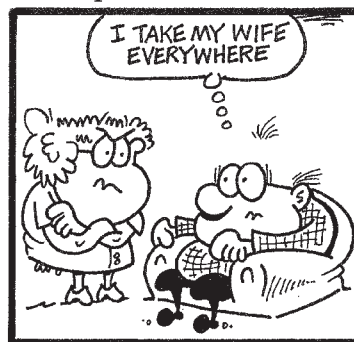

So too, when Jesus asks us to follow and obey Him, His call comes with the promise of the protection, guidance, sustenance, and rest that we need at that time in our lives. His call is suited to our needs because He knows us intimately. He knows us on a first-name basis. By Dennis J. De Haan

My Shepherd is the Lord who knows my needs, And I am blest; By quiet streams, in pastures green, He leads And makes me rest. —Psalter

You're not just a number computers can trace; Christ knows your need, your name, and your face.

Amber Waves by Dave T. Phipps

TODAY'S THE DAY. I REALLY NEED TO GET IN SHAPE.

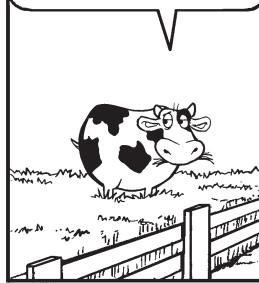

I SUPPOSE I REALLY COULD START EXERCISING MORE.

BESIDES, I'M WILLING TO BET IT'S MOSTLY GENETIC.

THAT'S IT. ONLY ONE ACRE FOR LUNCH FROM NOW ON.

Paws Corner

by Sam Mazzotta

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I walk my neighbors' dogs every day after school. It takes time because I have to walk one dog at a time, then go to the next house, and then the third one. I'd like to make this job a little more efficient by walking all three dogs at the same time. What's the best way to do this?
- Colin R., Smyrna, GA

DEAR COLIN: I can see your dilemma! Walking three dogs separately takes at least one hour, probably two, when you add in the time spent accessing each home, leashing up the dogs and unleashing.

It is possible to walk all three dogs at once, but you have to do two important things first: One, get permission from each neighbor to walk the dogs together, and two, make sure the dogs will get along before you commit.

You may be able to only walk two of them together and the third one alone. And if the neighbors don't agree, then you're stuck walking all three separately.

If you do get permission to walk them together, do it on a trial basis. Here are a few tips from professional dog walkers:

- Don't use retractable leashes when walking multiple dogs. You need full control at all times.
  - Leashes can easily get tangled; hold two in one hand and one in the other, or buy a 3-way leash coupler to minimize tangles.
  - If one or more dogs gets aggressive or bullying, walk them separately to prevent the problem from getting worse.
  - Avoid walking them in areas where a lot of other dogs are present. If all three bolt toward another dog, you may not be able to hang on to them.

• Use a muffin pan to make cookie cups for ice cream or fruit. Just flip your muffin pan over, and press dough over the upturned wells. It will puff up a little, but once it settles, they make very nice bowls. I do this with pizza dough as well. Prebake for a few minutes to form the bowl, then fill with ingredients and complete baking.

Recipe Corner

Homemade Shamrock Shakes
Julie Kimball Fitzgerald

2 cups vanilla ice cream
1 1/4 cups milk
1/4 teaspoon mint extract, or to taste
9 drops green food coloring (optional)
2 tablespoons chocolate syrup, or to taste
2 tablespoons whipped cream, or to taste
1/2 teaspoon green decorator sugar, or to taste

Blend ice cream, milk, mint extract, and food coloring together in a blender until smooth. Drizzle chocolate syrup around inside walls of 2 tall glasses; pour shake into glass. Top with whipped cream and green decorator sugar.

BIBLE WORD SEARCH

by Elie's Spiritual Treasures

ROMANS 8:32-33

He who did not spare his own Son, but gave him up for us all—how will he not also, along with him, graciously give us all things? Who will bring any charge against those whom God has chosen? It is God who justifies.
