Outdoor Opportunities

By COL (Ret.) Grey D. Berrier II

It's an Exceptionally Busy Time for Wildlife Encounters Close to Home

Here's our routine. I go to the door and first look out the window. I tell my companion to remain motionless in place. I slowly open the door to peak outside and thoroughly scan the area. Finally, I give my companion the OK to go outdoors. He immediately exits, does his own visual assessment of the situation, and is prepared to take off at a sprint in pursuit of an unsuspecting intruder. This isn't a scenario from an action movie or thrilling TV series. Rather, it's what I go through every time I let our dog out. Especially this time of year, when wildlife abounds and encounters are rather common. Our German shepherd is simply hoping he gets to chase a squirrel, rabbit, or chipmunk that has dared to enter "his" yard. I know the potential sightings are significantly more than just those three species. Allow me to share what's gone on around our place since Memorial Day, when it comes to what we've either seen or heard.

My wife has always said, "The wildlife own our property, we simply live here." This year, she keeps using the term "abundant" when it comes to the sheer quantity of rabbits, squirrels, birds, Garter snakes, and American toads we keep seeing on almost a daily basis. Let's start with the rabbits. Besides seeing bunnies of all different sizes, I've seen some rather unique behaviors. Several times, we've watched two rabbits face off maybe three feet apart and then have a jumping contest. Starting in a stationary position, they just jump straight up in the air and repeatedly go back and forth to see who can get the most air. It's comical to watch, but they seem to be enjoying themselves. Speaking of rabbits having fun, the other evening we watched four nearly full-grown rabbits run in a row, all only three feet apart, throughout the trees in our front yard for several minutes before they crossed the street into the neighbor's yard. It looked like they were playing a game, like school children. It's fairly obvious wildlife enjoy playing together too.

During daylight, we have a hen turkey who has been visiting our back yard almost daily. While at night, a large doe routinely walks around our yard. Our dog regularly looks out the sliding glass door or our front bay window for either of them. We keep expecting the hen to bring her poults along any day now and the doe to have a fawn or two in tow on her nightly strolls. Within the past week, we've had three different box turtles come up into our yard to lay their eggs. I saw two of them first, but our dog found the third and was very curious about this strange visitor. Fortunately, the turtle retracted into its shell and I was able to distract the dog, so she could go about her business. Speaking of fortunate, I happened to be the first to see a rather sizeable snapping turtle laying her eggs about 25-yards from our front porch, first thing in the morning. Her back was covered in duckweed, indicating she had just come up over the bank from the old Erie Extension Canal that forms our western property line. With an 18-inch carapace (upper shell), she could have injured our dog with her strong jaws, so I distracted him and kept him away from her. So far, raccoons have not disturbed the eggs, so we may see baby snapping turtles later this Summer.

Imagine my surprise, when one morning when I first let the dog out around 6:30 AM, I saw a bald eagle feather laying on the ground, only 10-feet from our front porch! We see bald eagles flying above the Shenango River on a regular basis and three times we've observed a bald eagle sitting in a tree in our front yard. Last year, I found three bald eagle feathers about 50-yards from the house in the NW corner of our property, but this year's feather was definitely a lot closer. Speaking of raptors flying close to the house, the other day, I saw an oddity when a small 12-inch Garter snake came crashing to the ground and met its demise on the concrete apron of our pole barn. I did not see the hawk that dropped it, but the dead snake had two talon marks near its tail where its captor had grabbed it. I'm guessing the tail captured Garter snake may have reached up, struck his flying captor, and was subsequently dropped from the sky.

Other recent sightings include the first red squirrel on our property in several years, the Baltimore orioles once again prudently making their woven nest in the black cherry directly above our hummingbird feeder they like to drain, and the nightly abundant synchronized fireflies displaying their luminous abdomens. The firefly is our official PA State Insect and I've loved watching them light up the night, ever since I was a child. Not everything at night is so peaceful. The other evening, we had a pack of coyotes howling in unison only a few hundred yards behind the house and the raccoons make their distinct squeals on a regular basis. Here's hoping you too have the opportunity to see and hear the wonder of the animal world all around us. Awe is the word that comes to mind! God Bless, Be Safe, and Great Outdoors!

The Garden Bug
Toads

The American toad can eat up to 100 insects in one night, reducing insect damage to your plants. To attract toads to your garden, provide water in which to breed (like a small pond or a ditch), plus a moist, dark place where they can wedge their body, and soil in which to burrow that is free of pesticides, herbicides and fertilizers. If they find a home they like, they might stay for years; observe their unique spot patterns on their back to identify them. When threatened, they can secrete a toxin from lumpy glands behind their eyes, so keep children and pets away and wash your hands after any contact.

Farmer's Market Nutrition Program

Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture

Voucher Distribution for the Lawrence County's Senior Farmer's Market Program begins June 17, 2024.

Eligible seniors can receive five (5) $10.00 vouchers one time only in 2024 to be used at approved farmer's markets.

Vouchers will be available on the following dates, times, and locations:

- Challenges, Options in Aging
2706 Mercer Rd., New Castle:
Monday, June 24, 2024, 9:30am to 3:00pm,
Tuesday, June 25, 2024, 9:30am to 3:00pm.
- Challenges, Options in Aging
1405 Woodside Ave., Ellwood City:
Monday, June 17, 2024, 9:30am-3:00pm
Tuesday, June 18, 2024, 9:30am-3:00pm

The first week of voucher distribution is very busy and a brief wait is not uncommon. Seniors living in nursing homes/residential facilities where meals are provided are not eligible.

ELIGIBILITY

- Age: 60 and over, or will be 60 by December 31, 2024.
- Income: 1 Person Household $27,861
2 Person Household $37,814
3 Person Household $47,767

Bring with you:

Proof of age and proof of Lawrence County residency

- Vouchers can be redeemed only at approved Farmer's Markets. A list of eligible Farmer's Markets will be provided. They cannot be used at grocery stores.
- You may purchase fruits and vegetables that can be grown in Pennsylvania. Packed and processed foods are not allowed to be purchased with vouchers.
- A short application must be completed when applying.
- Proof of age and Lawrence County residency is required.
- Vouchers can be used until November 30, 2024.
- PROXY INFORMATION: Children, other relatives, or friends can be a proxy for an individual unable to visit the distribution location. A proxy form must be completed in its entirety and signed by both the individual and proxy. Proxies can only pick up vouchers for four (4) eligible seniors. Identification is required by both the proxy, as well as the individual the proxy is representing. Proxy forms are available at Challenges.

Kovels

Antiques and Collecting by Terry and Kim Kovel

Q: I have a collection of cards I collected as a boy during World War II. They have pictures of WWII fighter planes and bombers. The reverse has two circles with insignia or emblems. They might have been premiums in boxes of cereal. Can you give me any information and possible value?

A: If the pictures are just photographs, they are probably trading cards. If they have silhouettes of the shape of the planes, they might be spotter cards, aircraft recognition cards used to identify planes during WWII. The cards had silhouettes of planes as seen from the ground. They were one of the aids used by civilian observers, part of the Army Air Forces Ground Observer Corps. Spotter cards were also made as playing cards and given to servicemen. Kellogg's printed "Plane Spotter Cards" on the backs of Pep cereal boxes and included a model plane in the package. Reproductions of the original spotter cards have been made. Spotter playing cards sell for about $10. We haven't seen any spotter cards with insignia or emblems on the back. Most sell for less than $4-$5 each.

Our Daily Bread

Teaching By Example

Bring [your children] up in the training and admonition of the Lord. —Ephesians 6:4

Read: Ephesians 6:1-11

While waiting for an eye examination, I was struck by a statement I saw in the optometrist's office: "Eighty percent of everything children learn in their first 12 years is through their eyes." I began thinking of all that children visually process through reading, television, film, events, surroundings, and observing the behavior of others, especially their families. On this Father's Day, we often think about the powerful influence of a dad.

Paul urged fathers not to frustrate their children to the point of anger, but to "bring them up in the training and admonition of the Lord" (Eph. 6:4). Think of the powerful example of a dad whose behavior and consistency inspire admiration from his children. He's not perfect, but he's moving in the right direction. A great power for good is at work when our actions reflect the character of God, rather than distort it.

That's challenging for any parent, so it's no coincidence that Paul urges us to "be strong in the Lord and in the power of His might" (v.10). Only through His strength can we reflect the love and patience of our heavenly Father.

We teach our children far more from how we live than by what we say.

Heavenly Father, I need to know Your love in order to love others. I want to experience and share Your patience and kindness with those I care about. Fill me and use me.

We honor fathers who not only gave us life, but who also show us how to live.

Paws Corner

by Sam Mazzotta

©2024 King Features Synd., Inc.

DEAR KERRY: You're going to have a wonderful summer! It sounds like you and your family have been diligent about training your dog in basic obedience so that he'll come back to you on command, sit and stay in place. And he'll be old enough – and have his most important vaccinations out of the way – to stay healthy outside or when encountering other dogs.

Here's a few great off-leash games to play:

Fetch: The gold standard game for dogs remains a favorite. Just grab a tennis ball and toss it.

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: My dad finally let us adopt a puppy a few months ago, and I can't wait for summer vacation, when I can spend all day with him! He's got lots of energy, but we've been training him to follow commands. What are some outside games that I can play with him? – Kerry B., Winchester, VA

Frisbee: Energetic dogs can chase these flying discs all day.
 Agility training: Start with simple tasks like going under or over obstacles.
 Swimming: Fill a kiddie pool in the backyard and let your dog splash around on a hot day.
 Tracking: Have your dog follow a line of treats to a "jackpot" (a toy or food). Extend the distance between treats each session.
 Remember, only take your dog off leash in a safe area or approved off-leash location. A fenced-in backyard is ideal, but if you don't have one of those, go to a dog park or municipal, state or federal park that has an off-leash area. Some of these games, like agility and tracking, can be done on-leash. Have fun!

Strange But True

by Lucie Winborne

- India has a bill of rights for cows.
- Kenya Railways requires that all trains stop for several minutes before crossing the Mwatate Dam in the southern part of the country. The practice was adopted on the advice of local residents after several mysterious derailments on the dam were blamed on evil spirits inhabiting the reservoir, which townsfolk claimed were angered by the trains not appeasing them by pausing in tribute.

• Young adults really like theme parties, so we always have a mixer theme night to start. We had a scavenger hunt where we collected clues about some senior family members. To figure out who it was, the kids would listen to them tell stories and ask questions. T.E.

Now Here's A Tip
by JoAnn Derson

• Family reunions are a fun and worthwhile investment. Being together with many generations is a wonderful experience. Often, these gatherings are highly scheduled, but remember to set aside time – and a designated place – to simply sit and talk. Here are some other great family reunion tips from our readers. – JoAnn

• Make sure that you schedule sitters for the little ones so the adults can relax and participate. Last year, each adult with kids (and some who just wanted to help out) took shifts to be official kid wranglers and entertainers. They did an outstanding job, and the unscheduled parents had time to reconnect with adults without divided attention, and felt good that someone was designated "in charge." – P.G. in California

Even Exchange by Donna Pettman

Each numbered row contains two clues and two 6-letter answers. The two answers differ from each other by only one letter, which has already been inserted. For example, if you exchange the A from MASTER for an I, you get MISTER. Do not change the order of the letters.
