Fascinating Facts on PA's Largest Snake, the Eastern Ratsnake

There is a good reason why every species has a Latin scientific name.

It's because many species have multiple common names, based on where you are and who you are talking to. What many individuals commonly refer to as a "black snake", black ratsnake, mountain pilot snake, or a white-throated snake is actually identified by latest taxonomy classification as the Eastern ratsnake and more specifically as Pantherophis alleghaniensis. I grew up calling them "black snakes" and what got me thinking about them was an experience I had on the way home from Franklin, PA in mid-June. We were heading south on PA-8 when I saw what initially appeared to be a black rubber strap in our lane. As we got closer, I realized it was a 4-ft. Eastern ratsnake crossing the road. I moved left to enable our tires to go around the snake and glanced in the rearview mirror to see the snake survived the ordeal and continued its road crossing.

Now, I know many people believe "the only good snake is a dead snake." That is unfortunate because snakes play an important role in nature. As predators, smaller snakes consume damaging insects and larger snakes take their toll on rodents. In my lifetime, I've known numerous farmers who have coexisted with "black snakes" in their barns to keep rats and mice in check to avoid rodent damage to their animal feed. Here in PA, we have 21 species of indigenous snakes, of which 18 are nonvenomous and only three are venomous. Our venomous species include the timber rattlesnake, Eastern massasauga (a rare, small rattlesnake), and copperhead. All three venomous species have triangular shaped heads and vertical slit pupils (like a cat's eyes). While our 18 nonvenomous snake species have oblong heads and round pupils (similar to a human's eyes). Again, many individuals with Ophidiophobia (the fear of snakes) want to kill every snake, rather than take the time to properly identify the species based on its head's profile and pupil's shape. Many folks do not know the PA Fish & Boat Commission manages PA's reptiles and amphibians, not the PA Game Commission, and make an ongoing effort to educate the public on snakes.

My most memorable "black snake" encounter came in June 1992 at Fort Indiantown Gap. As a young Captain/Battery Commander, I was riding "shotgun" in our venerable M151 Jeep on a recon with my First Sergeant, Executive Officer, and Chief of Firing Battery.

We encountered a 6-ft. "black snake" coiled up on the tank trail. Knowing tracked vehicle convoys might be passing by that afternoon, I decided to move the snake. Having watched Mutual of Omaha's Wild Kingdom in my youth, I waved my right hand to gain its attention, before grabbing it behind the head with my left. When I walked back to the Jeep with the 6-ft. snake now partially coiled around my left arm (it was the diameter of my wrist), my three fellow Battery leaders were dumbfounded. It was 1SG who asked me when I approached the Jeep, "Sir, what do you plan on doing with that snake?" I replied, "We can take it back to show our soldiers and then let it go." He prudently replied, "Our unit is from Pittsburgh and 50% of our soldiers are from the city. If you show them that snake, 50% of our soldiers will not be going to the field with us for the next 10-days." I realized he was right and I immediately released it back in the woods off the tank trail.

Here are a few fascinating facts about Eastern ratsnakes: (1) Pantherophis alleghaniensis, its Latin name, actually means "black panther snake of the Allegheny mountains." (2) Juvenile Eastern ratsnakes are not black. They can have a black-and-white to gray body with black/brown blotches on the back. Many adults still have some white/yellow speckles mixed in with their predominantly black coloration. (3) Eastern ratsnakes will exhibit unique protective behaviors in which they puff out their heads to appear triangular (like a venomous snake), and will also shake their tails rapidly (like a rattlesnake). This imitation in nature of a harmful species by a harmless species is called Batesian mimicry. (4) They are both terrestrial (on the ground) and arboreal (in trees). They are great climbers and can climb vertically up a tree or rock surface with their clingy scales underneath. (5) Eastern ratsnakes predominantly eat rodents, but will also climb trees to consume bird eggs and nestlings. They will out compete copperheads for rodents, so if you have one in your barn or shed, you typically won't find any copperheads around. (6) While the Eastern garter snake is the most frequently encountered snake in PA, the Eastern ratsnake is fairly common and is by far our largest snake, achieving lengths of up to 100-inches (that's over 8-ft.)!

Now you know more about the Eastern ratsnakes inhabiting the fields and forests around us. So, please give them some respect and allow them to go their own way! God Bless, Be Safe, and Great Outdoors! ©WBB 2024

Strange But True

by Lucie Winborne

• Margaret Dixon, a Scottish criminal, was hanged at Musselburgh in 1728. However, just a few hours later, she climbed out of her coffin, and was reprieved and pardoned. Still, as her husband was considered a widower because she was "officially" deceased, Scottish law dictated that they had to remarry.

Strange But True by Lucie Winborne

• On April Fools' Day 1957, the BBC television documentary "Panorama" broadcast a documentary about the so-called spaghetti orchards of Switzerland, with discussions of spaghetti plantations in Switzerland and Italy, the spaghetti weevil, and the reason for the pasta's being of such uniform lengths held against a background of Swiss "spaghetti trees." Many viewers, forgetting or failing to notice the date, believed the orchards were real!

Strange But True

by Lucie Winborne

• Guglielmo Marconi, whose invention of wireless telegraphy was credited for saving the lives of over 700 Titanic passengers after it sank in 1912, had turned down a free passage on the ship, choosing instead to go to America via the Lusitania three days earlier. He narrowly missed death at sea a second time in 1915, when he was again a passenger on the Lusitania, about a month before it was sunk by a German U-boat.

OOH, THERE'S A REALLY EXCELLENT YUMMY PATCH OF GRASS RIPE FOR THE TAKING!

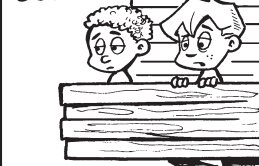

IF I DON'T GET OVER THERE AND CLAIM IT SOMEONE ELSE WILL COME AND GRAB IT.

... AHH, FORGET IT. I DON'T FEEL LIKE MOVING. THAT'S TOO FAR AWAY TO BOTHER.

WOW, IT'S LIKE WATCHING MY DAD ON THE COUCH WHEN HE FORGETS TO GRAB THE REMOTE.

Kovels

Antiques and Collecting by Terry and Kim Kovel Q: I found some Norman Rockwell embossed prints in my family's things. Are they valuable? How can I find collectors who might want to buy them? A: Norman Rockwell (1894-1978) was an artist and illustrator best-known for his nostalgic portrayals of 20th-century American life. Between 1916 and 1963, he painted more than 300 covers for The Saturday Evening Post. In 1963, he began painting illustrations and covers for Look magazine, with subjects about current events. Rockwell created over 4,000 original works of art for advertisements, books, catalogs, calendars, and other items. Original artwork, paintings, sketches and prints signed by the artist have sold for a few hundred dollars to a few thousand dollars. The signature has to be authenticated by a qualified appraiser to be of value. Rockwell prints have been mass-produced. Some sell online for $5 to $10.

2 medium zucchini
 1 jalapeno pepper, minced
 1 slice bread, torn into small pieces
 6 Tbsp. shredded Cheddar cheese
 1/4 cup bacon bits
 1/4 cup minced onion
 1/4 cup chopped tomato
 3 Tbsp. diced green chile peppers
 1 Tbsp. minced black olives
 pinch dried basil
 seasoned salt and black pepper to taste

•Place zucchini in a large pot, cover with water. Bring to a boil, cook for 5 min. Drain, cool, and cut in half lengthwise. Scoop out pulp to about 1/4" from skin. Chop pulp into small pieces. Combine all but seasonings in large bowl. Season with basil, salt, pepper; mix well. Stuff zucchini halves with pulp mixture. Wrap each zucchini boat with aluminum foil. Place on prepared grill over medium indirect heat, cook 15-20 min. until tender.

Our Daily Bread

Birthday Celebration

Read: Psalm 71:5-18

By You I have been upheld from birth . . . My praise shall be continually of You. —Psalm 71:6

I used to love birthdays. I can still remember standing excitedly on our front porch waiting for my friends to show up for my 5th birthday party. I wasn't just excited about the balloons, the gifts, and the cake. I was happy that I was no longer only 4! I was growing up.

As I've gotten older, however, birthdays have sometimes been more discouraging than exciting. Last year when I celebrated a birthday that marked me by decades more than by years, my wife, Martie, cheered me up with the reminder that I should be grateful to be growing older. She pointed me to Psalm 71, where the psalmist talks about God's presence throughout his life. He remembers that God "took me out of my mother's womb" (71:6), and he proclaims with thankfulness, "O God, You have taught me from my youth; and to this day I declare Your wondrous works" (v.17). And now, when the psalmist is older, he has the honor to proclaim: "[God's] strength to this generation, [His] power to everyone who is to come" (v.18). God had blessed the psalmist with His presence through every year of his life.

Birthdays now remind me of God's faithfulness. And they bring me closer to being in the presence of the One who has been with me all these years!

Now Here's A Tip

by JoAnn Derson

• “We had an impromptu princess/magical fairy tea party at our house yesterday, and we came up with the best on-the-spot magic wands. We cut big stars out of paperboard (like a cereal box) and decorated them with stickers, construction paper and glitter, then we threaded them on long kebab sticks. I snipped the pointy end and covered it with colorful tape. Presto, party wand!” – E.D. in Maine board. Parents bring in a picture of themselves at their job, and the children can see the picture and know that it shows what Mommy or Daddy is doing while the child is playing.” – S.E. in MO ©2024 King Features Synd., Inc.

• “At my child’s day care, there is a ‘Where’s Mommy and Daddy?’

• To keep salt from coming out of a saltshaker too quickly, add some plain, uncooked white rice to the salt. The large grains of rice will block some of the holes, causing less salt to come out with each shake.
